MUCTA Teachers Association accuses College Principal of doing injustice

NAVI MUMBAI: This newspaper received a e-mail from MUCTA Teachers Association muctateachers@gmail.com on Date: 2018-04-05 16:26 GMT+05:30. The content of this mail focused on the following:

1. Autocracy and Harassment to faculty members by Principal of Saraswati College of Engineering, Kharghar, Navi Mumbai.

2. Termination orders issued to five Faculty Members Arbitrary involved in civilized non-cooperation.

3. Prof. Bhumi Patil (Assistant professor EXTC) Fainted and collapsed. She had to be rushed in to ICU ward at Niramaya Hospital Kharghar following an emergency Health situation. She is still under observation.

4. Even when the situation has reached the worst of its happening following Non-Payment of pervious eight Months Salary (from Aug-17 to till date), Principal Dr. Manjusha Deshmukh has not stopped her harassment by aggravating the wounds of already depressed staff members.

The letter further says:

Saraswati college of Engineering has not paid salaries to the faculty members from last Eight Months (August 2018 to till date). Due to Nonpayment of Salaries the Faculty members of Saraswat College of Engineering have started Non-cooperation Movement. Its the 10th day of agitation.

Yesterday on 04/04/2018 the principal of the institution put red lines in front of the names of five faculty members working from last many years. She conveyed to them that their services were over/terminated. In spite of the fact that the faculty members are suffering from last eight months with extreme financial crises the autocracy and rude behavior of the principal continues with different shades of such brutalities on innocent staff members.

How you can remove faculty members without paying their wages/justified salaries? When this question was asked to Dr. Manjusha Deshmukh she answered arrogantly that payment cannot be done immediately under any circumstance. She refused to stop the orders of terminated staff members.

Because of such rude behavior and injustice Prof. Bhumi Patil fainted and collapsed. Her blood pressure went down, and she was nearly breathless. She had to be rushed to ICU of Niramaya Hospital Kharghar for urgent medical treatment. She is still in the ICU struggling to be stable.

On one side creating such a huge payment lag and on the other side terminating the services of the faculty members has created huge fear and anger within the striving and struggling faculty members sitting on noncooperation in the campus.

In spite of sending two reminders to Mumbai University, Director of Technical Education (Maharashtra), Government of Maharashtra, These apex bodies are deliberately ignoring the complaints and not initiating any action against the institute said Mr. Subhash Athame (Secretary MUCTA). The conclusion of the letter said:

If any wrong happens with the lives of the professors on non-cooperation from justified rights, Dr. Manjusha Deshmukh (Principal Saraswati College of engineering) would be held responsible said Mr. Subhash Athame (Secretary MUCTA). If such Autocratic and rude behavior is not stopped immediately then we have to initiate case of harassment against the Principal said Mr. Subhash Athavale (Secretary MUCTA).

When Dev finds out his wife is cheating on him, he secretly blackmails his wife and her lover as a form of revenge. The distressed couple goes from pillar to post in a vastly spread resort to search for her, but Titli seems to have disappeared. The police is informed and the most reputed police officer Ramkhilawan Buddu of the Mauritian police force enters the scene. Different people, different viewpoints, different versions about the child going missing turns into a cat and mouse game.

A Quiet Place

A Quiet Place is a 2018 American thriller film directed by John Krasinski, who also stars in the film with Emily Blunt, his real-life spouse. The screenplay was written by Krasinski, Bryan Woods, and Scott Beck, based on a story by Woods and Beck. The plot follows a family of four who must live life in silence while hiding from creatures that hunt by sound.

A Quiet Place is a monster-movie allegory for parenting in a world gone very, very wrong. A couple with kids in real life, Krasinski and Emily Blunt here play parents in a world where even the slightest noise can lead to sudden, violent death: Training their children to be self-sufficient without making a sound is as unique a challenge as well. Opening with a card that reads "Day 89," the movie finds our unnamed family gathering provisions in an upstate New York community that has become a ghost town. As they sign to each other — the daughter is deaf, and presumably, knowing sign language helped them keep each other alive as their neighbors were killed — we learn that the spidery creatures who have wreaked havoc have exceptional hearing. Being blind, that's the only way they can locate things to eat. Two parents and three children start the long walk back home. In a beautifully staged, heartbreaking scene, one of the children makes a mistake and is killed. A little over a year later, Mom is pregnant. Who would bring a child into this world — and how would one even manage labor and delivery quietly? A soundproofing scheme is being planned, though no one is eager

April 2 was World Autism Day

Aashray School of Sanpada does yeomen service to society

By C.K. Subramaniam

NAVI MUMBAI: On World Autism Day we come across doctors share how to handle autistic kids and the ways and means to tackle them in a friendly and in a most dedicated way. On April 2nd every year, organisations around the world celebrate World Autism Day, with events around the world, to persuade neurotypicals, people not on the autism spectrum, that autistic people are unique individuals who should not be seen as cases for treatment just like differently abled persons.

In Sanpada, Aashray School is doing yeomen service to the society by taking up the job of inculcating education to such students and providing them with a scope to learn art and culture and go to the extent of training them in sports like cycling and running to have a feel of the outside world. The school organises annual sports and annual day to encourage the children to perform in front of their parents in a very big way. The stall outside the school sell items made by the

World Autism Day quickly became a global event which is still celebrated widely online. The most important thing to note about the day is that it is an autistic community event which is conducted to give fillip to the importance and it is originated from and is still led by autistic people themselves. It is not a day for other charities or organisations to promote themselves or stifle autistic people. The rainbow infinity symbol is used as the symbol of this day, representing "diversity with infinite variations and infinite possibilities and it really reveals the real essence of such pride day".

The autistic people have a unique set of characteristics that provide them many rewards and challenges. Although autism is an expression of neurodiversity, some people promoting autistic pride believe that some of the difficulties that they experience are as the result of societal issues. Autism and other forms of disability are part of the human experience that contributes to human diversity. As such, the United Nations has emphasized the need to mainstream disability in the Organization's development agenda. Mainstreaming disability requires an integral approach in the design, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of policies and programmes in all political, economic and societal spheres, so that inequality is not perpetuated. People need to accept autism every day, not just on that particular day.

Autism is no longer classified as a single disorder, but rather an entire spectrum ranging in severity. Autism is the core of all of these syndromes, with its features being prevalent to varying

What is wrong with SC's judgment?

The Supreme Court in its ruling has introduced safeguards against misuse of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. These are just the norms to safeguard the innocent against false complaints since there is large-scale misuse of the SC/ST Act. Does the recent explosion of Dalit anger stem from the judgment? As the Bench has now agreed to hear the petition to review its own March 20 order, what is needed is a spell of calm and peace.

The Bench has declined to suspend the order and clarified that its objective was to safeguard the innocent. There are two disparate factors at play — protecting the innocent against harassment and misuse of a law, and faithfully preserving the letter and spirit of a piece of legislation aimed at upholding the rights and dignity of the historically oppressed classes. Neither should be sacrificed for the sake of the other.

The agitation was politically motivated to create disaffection against the Government.

Under current law, a dalit can accuse his superior of harassment and police can arrest the superior without enquiry. What the court wants is there should be -preliminary enquiry on the complaint and if there is substance police can arrest. What is wrong in this?

The Supreme Court Judgment did not confine itself to a specific case. Instead it went on to make generalised statement on misuse of the Act. Supreme Court categorically stated that it received information from the Government that the said Act was misused. The Government furnished figures on the number of cases filed vis-a-vis the number of convictions under Act, which appears to have made it possible for the court to draw a conclusion.

The fact is that there are two class of SC/STs. The first class is the well off one who have cornered all the benefits provided to SC/STs and does not allow the benefits to percolate to the really needy. The second class of SC/STs are the poorest one - mostly landless labourers and doing other menial jobs. This second class really requires all the safeguards and benefits provided to SC/STs. But in reality the more vocal first class not only corners all the benefits but also misuses the SC/ST act to browbeat all others. The first class SC/STs are well educated and mostly employed in Govt. or Govt owned institutions. How to safeguard the weakest without allowing misuse by the well off is the question.

The SC/ST verdict is a way to prevent the harassment of the innocents, the Law is just which has not liquidated the rights of the oppressed classes. It's a clever plot of irrational politics which is fueling the matter into the fire. Now the apex court will scrupulously have a look again.

Legal and administrative system in the country are more broad based to the extent of being more oppressive in nature to other communities than to our Dalit brethren in terms of stringent provisions on punishments contained in almost all enactments relating to prevention of atrocities against members belonging to Dalit and tribal communities. The SC is correct to note that Constitutional protections for those accused of crimes do not disappear just because the crime is alleged to be a hate crime against Dalits.

Skymet Predicts Normal Monsoon

The prediction of meteorological department of forecasting 110% rains is a welcome news. As per the weather report there is no chance of drought this year. If it is normal, the country will record nearly 900 mm for the fur month period from June to September this year. The onset month of June and the withdrawal month of September give a promising picture in terms of good country wide rainfall distribution.

Normal rainfall in the country is critical for rice, cane, corn, cotton, and soybean cultivation. To start with, the month of June will have excess rain fall and they may not cause anxiety of delay in monsoon setting up in the state in general and the country in particular. Even September is going to have normal rain fall and may exceed 100 mm mark and it is a welcome news. Now it is time to manage water resources available to our advantage instead of playing blame game about floods.

Chandrababu Naidu Counting Chickens

Chandrababu Naidu is an opportunist and backed out of BJP in a hasty decision and now realizing his mistake. If his state need financial help only BJP Government can help out the cause. After the angry exit Andhra CM is trying eke out cheap politics by saying that BJP wants tainted allies. Chandrababu Naidu is looked for his personal benefits, in the past also and he even dethrone his own father in law NT

Letters to the Editor...

Rama Rao to usurp power. He had a bad track record to let down its coalition partners in the past. This is the second big move made by the TDP, after pulling out its two Ministers from the NDA government. As YSR has not withdrawn support from NDA, Chandrababu Naidu is talking ill about YSR and BJP relationship.

CM's version that BJP is defaming him is meaningless. He is defaming himself with his 'U' turns. He never tried to be strong in getting Special Status. He meekly surrendered to the special package and tried his best to convince the people saying that there is nothing special in in special status. When he was criticised by the opposition parties and experts, he started to change his stand. The acceptance of his ministers' resignation shocked him further. And his coming out of the alliance was not stopped by the BJP. Moreover the BJP leaders started raising their voice against him and demanded a white paper on the centre's aid. This suffocated our CM and makes him now find fault with BJP.

Naidu has realised that he has gone into premature misadventure with his recent series of actions. His first trick of Ministers' resignation misfired with no relief since it was promptly accepted. He then went into withdrawal from NDA as the next step to save some face but this did not get any sympathy either from Andhra people or Central Government. Now his talk is showing signs of failure and frustration.

All the regional parties across India have priorities which are mostly regional and selfish, which does not augur well for the national interest. Even Naidu has such ambition and wants to build a huge capital for the new State when he knows they cannot afford such a massive structure right now. He wants to show on paper only the developmental activities but not practical. All parties' wants to divide the country on the basis of caste, creed and religion and so on but never ever want to build a strong India. Only talk of strong nation but action division of India on any basis which suits them.

But political things are different and have worsened. Every leader of standing wants his acolytes and MLA supporters to continue to be satisfied and this needs ever increasing grants and electoral funds. As development goes on different problems, in degree as well as kind will emerge needing an ever imaginative approach. Even in case of individual development this holds at different levels and circumstances approach will have to be different regarding skills. Naidu has to be out of NDA on account of political compulsions and not on account of any principles or ethics.

Naidu goes to extremes in comments and he knows well that Special Category cannot be given to each state on some fictitious ground and treat all equally and provide help when and where it is required extra due to poverty or deprived groups in large numbers. States like Jharkhand is managing with their own resources and never requested for financial help. The Dumka treasury was rich enough to loot by ex CM Lalu Prasad Yadav, who was sentenced to 14 years in jail by a special CBI court in Ranchi. States are self-sufficient and it is time to make it up within the available resources rather than begging for funds all the time. Naidu is trying to count chickens before they were actually hatched.
