India deepens defence ties with the U.S.

The India-U.S. defence relationship has been given a significant boost after the inaugural 2+2 Dialogue in Delhi: the Communications Compatibility and Security Agreement (COMCASA), "hotlines" between the Defence and Foreign Ministers of both countries. External Affairs Minister Sushma Swaraj and Defence Minister Nirmala Sitharaman met their US counterpart Secretary of State Mike Pompeo and Secretary of Defence Jim Mattis. This was an historical moment.

India has been purchasing a large amount of U.S. defence hardware. U.S. has decided to include India in the top tier of countries entitled to Strategic Trade Authorisation (STA-1). Apart from the defence agreements, they discussed trade issues, cooperation on fighting terrorism, advancing "a free, open, and inclusive Indo-Pacific region" and promoting sustainable "debt-financing" in the region.

The 2+2 discussions brought much-needed focus on the India-U.S. relationship after months of drift and occasional discord. But no public statement was made on India's investment in the Chabahar port and about India receiving a waiver to purchase Russian hardware. India expects that the Trump administration will come through on waiving sanctions and being more flexible on trade issues.

China's reactions were interesting. According to a Chinese Magazine, "From a long-term perspective,...it's unlikely to have any significant impact on the regional security layout and strategic balance."

The Chinese Foreign Ministry described the 2+2 dialogue as an exercise of "normal bilateral relations between the two sides." It hopes that in this process India and US will do more to regional peace and regional stability.

However, China acknowledges that in recent years, U.S. and India have accelerated military cooperation, deepened defence relations, and conducted exchanges and coordination such as procurement and joint development of arms, technology transfer, joint exercise and training, and counter-terrorism operations. The scale of the US-India joint military exercises has been constantly expanding and involved such countries as Japan, Australia, and the Philippines, continuously amplifying the scope of exchanges.

China points to Pentagon's "relatively weak" presence in the Indian Ocean as the driver of its deeper engagement with India. On the contrary, by working out a military relationship with the U.S., India aspires to lower its dependence on Russia-made weapons, and increase its competitive advantage over Pakistan.

As per Chinese view, on the diplomatic platform, India wants "to enhance its international status and influence and gain support from the U.S. in international affairs such as becoming a permanent member of the U.N. Security Council." Besides close ties with Washington can be used as "a bargaining chip to gain a dominant position in the relationships with Russia, China, Japan, and other countries.

UIDAI and school admission

The Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI) has asserted that schools cannot refuse admission to students for lack of Aadhaar, and termed denial on such grounds as invalid. It has also exhorted schools to coordinate with local banks, post offices, State education department and district administration, to facilitate special camps in their premises for Aadhaar enrolment and updating. The government doesn't realize that still thousands of people are denied Aadhaar due to lack of ID and address proof.

I wonder whether UIDAI has the authority to dictate terms and penalize banks. Whether any such delegation has been conferred on them by the Regulator RBI. Banks already have so many business targets to be achieved besides sometimes insurance products etc. Now another non business targets Aadhaar completion and further penalty for non-achieving before a stipulated date. Will RBI interfere in the matter? Banks are already doing their job well and doing their level best. During demonetization it was well acknowledged by GOI about the day and night service of banks. UIDAI should try to appreciate the genuine intention and hard work of the banks instead of initiating such demotivating steps. Any opinions please?

It is pertinent to take our memory to olden days, when there was computer and the work load of bank staff was much heavier than today. Monthly balancing of SB accounts, manual writing of day book and daily posting in GL preparation of all statements manually including all the quarterly/ monthly statements like priority sector statements, etc. Now a days the staff members, though perceived to be busy are rather lazy and inattentive to the customers/ careless compared to a decade or two back. going through every SB accounts, and fixing those who maintain average good balance contacting them personally soliciting their help to mobilize further deposits, avenues for lending through their known sources, maintaining a updated registry of such customers and regular contacting them frequently, including house visits added quality business to the branch and also increased client base and good will.

Whereas now a days hardly any staff in a branch resort to these basic requirements for bank's growth. Perceived work load if planned well with commitment and dedication will go a long way, which is need of the hour. for example having more than 18 years continuous transactions with the branch and also headed the branch for considerable period, surprisingly last May when asked for Form 16 my name was missing and after one month it was told in mid june the branch has remitted entire 12 months Income tax with wrong PAN NO and got rectified the same after much perusal. Good old day's way of looking at business is entirely different from nowadays man management in banks and now thrust is mainly for NPA recovery though for all parameters, we used to have targets and used to attend multitasking.

Considering the importance of linking Aadhar to account, there is nothing wrong penalizing banks if each branch is unable to contact minimum 8 customers daily and get their accounts linked to Aadhaar. At least real marketing will start in each branch in real terms, and dependence of walk-in business will be shifted to connectivity with our clients. Further, the intention of govt. is to be understood, though UIDAI is a different agency, routing the same through RBI to supervise and get the work done will further mess up the entire process, as RBI of late is unable to manage effectively banks due of dual control over banks by central government and RBI.

As a matter of fact, education is above this Aadhar obsession. Even children with special needs, are denied admissions in regular Montessori, and playgroup schools with regular children. so where is the question of rights for children. It must be ensured that no children are deprived/denied of their due benefits or rights for want of Aadhaar. The move by UIDAI is expected to come as a major relief to parents and students who have been facing difficulties due to schools insisting on Aadhaar number during admission.

10,000 per sq ft.

Commercial: Thane and Navi Mumbai markets are in the rental range of INR 50-60 per sq ft per month, i.e. sub-dollar rentals, which is most favored by the IT-ITES sector. The sub-dollar Grade-A markets in Mumbai, possibly for the first time, open-up an opportunity for the city to tap the cost-conscious tenants who are also responsible for driving large volumes, in terms of space. The IT-ITES sector has been critical for the Indian commercial realty space as close to 40% of annual leasing activity is driven by this sector.

Industrial: There are 3,614 units registered as Industries in Raigad. The number of units have been growing steadily over the last 4 years. These industrial units consist of micro, small, medium and large enterprises and together provide employment to about 89,000 people in the formal sector. The total employment generated has increased from 86,511 to 89,137 over the course of 4 years.

Raigad is still at the infancy stage and given the scale of infrastructure and planned urban development, we anticipate a spike in new launches in Raigad. According to MahaRERA, there are currently close to 10 major active office projects under various stages of construction, which would bring in 3.5 to 4 lac sq ft of office space in the near future and are likely to boost residential demand.
